BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—Selection of a keynoter for a political convention is usually followed by a shower of raspberries from the opposition, which always is glad to suggest that the choice was a sour one.

Italians Encircle Lake Tana, North; Battle on South

Marshal Badoglio Reports
Complete Occupation of Lake Region

SOMALILAND FIGHT

Crucial Battle Under Way
in South, Where Invasion Is Dragging

By the Associated Press

Premier Mussolini heaped further criticism Saturday upon economic and financial sanctions against his Fascist nation as the black shirt troops were officially reported to have completed their occupation of the Lake Tana region in Ethiopia.

The official daily report from Marshal Badoglio declared that an Italian column had occupied Bardar Givorgis, at the southern extremity of Lake Tana, and that a battle had begun on the "small" front, near Sasa Banch.

Battle on South

ROME, Italy.—(AP)—Italian troops marched along the highway toward Addis Ababa Friday as the Southern Fascist army drove toward the important city of Sasa Banch.

An unconfirmed rumor here was that King Victor Emmanuel eventually would be named emperor of Ethiopia as a tribute to the support the royal House of Savoy has given the Fascist war.

A battle is under way on the Southern front between retreating Ethiopians led by Ras Nasibu, estimated to number 45,000, and Italian troops under Gen. Rodolfo Graziani. The outcome is regarded as crucial, since Sasa Banch blocks the way to Harar.

The daily war communiqué said that an Italian column had taken Uorra Illu, 60 kilometers (38 miles) south of Dessaye on the road to the capital. This was interpreted to mean the advance guard is many miles ahead. Uorra Illu is important since it is on the main road to Addis Ababa and commands also the route to Ankober.

Italian reports contended there was dissension in the Ethiopian government over whether to resist or surrender. One dispatch said a Belgian military officer arriving at Djibouti from Addis Ababa asserted the Ethiopians had decided to send a commission bearing a white flag and keys to the city to meet the Italians.

Lee County Sheriff Quickly Acquitted

Smith Exonerated of Criminal Intent—Face Civil Suit

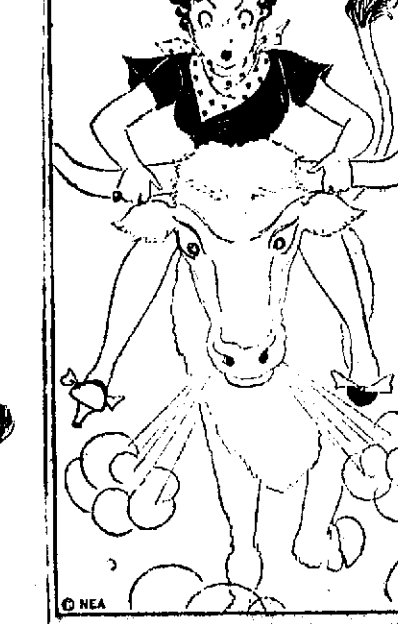

MARIANNA, Ark.—(AP)—A jury, after 10 minutes of deliberation Friday acquitted Zoli C. Smith of embezzling $8,552.21 in public funds. He immediately was reinstated as sheriff and collector of Lee county.

Smith admitted charges of shortages in his office over the past three years, but denied responsibility for them.

Is Market Headed for Boom or Thud?

Stocks Are Rising Swifter Than in Coolidge's Years

Here's the Story, by Flynn
—Photos by Margaret
Bourke-White

IS RISE TOO RAPID?

While Business Was Gaining 18.6% Stock Values
Jumped 48%

By JOHN T. FLYNN

Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.
NEW YORK—Wall Street and Main Street are getting their wires crossed again. At least so it is said. Certainly the old stock market, which has been sick so long, shows signs of boiling once more. The brokers are quite happy about it. The board rooms everywhere are filling up with customers. Some bankers pretend to be very much disturbed by it. But in Washington the administration keeps very quiet and calm.

Flynn gives off the impression of being secretly delighted at this evidence of business activity and recovery.

The people who lost their shirts in 1929 to 1933 are fingering the ticker again hoping that they may get back the wads they saw evaporating a few years ago. If you look at it on paper, it seems easy enough.

Suppose, you say to yourself, you had bought some General Motors stock last year at 27. It's now 71. Or suppose you had bought some Chrysler stock at 31. It's now 103.

To put it differently, suppose you had had $1000. With that you could have bought without straining the market requirements 65 shares. They would cost $2015. But you could put up $1000 and borrow the rest. In the last year those shares rose from 31 to 103 or from $2015 to $6695. There's a neat profit of $4680. After you had paid your commission, both ways and interest on the loan, etc., you would have around $4500 clear profit. Pretty soft, eh? And all you would have had to do would be to have $1000, give the order to your broker and wait for the stock to rise, meantime sitting around taking it easy or, perhaps, working away—slaving at your regular job for a measly $2500 a year. But why work when it is so easy to make money?

The Other Side

Alas! there are just two flies in this ointment. One of them is this. If you had a thousand dollars a year ago, how do you know you would have bought Chrysler, instead of something else? A lot of stocks went up. But a lot didn't go up and a lot went down.

Take American Sugar Refining, for instance. That was 50. It went up last year to 71. But what makes you think you would have bought it at 50—the low? Of course you wouldn't. The market had begun its upward march before the public was well aware of it. Had you bought it probably it would have been nearer 71. And then you would have seen it go down to 56. This, of course, is where the outsiders—which means almost all who play the market—get caught. They climb in on the top and of these rises just in time for the descent. Here is a list of shares taken just out of the stocks beginning with A—those at the top of the list—which went up and down and the prices:

	High for week of	April 6-
Adams Mills	1935	11, 1936
Advance Rumely	37 1/2	26 1/2
American Can	20 1/2	3 1/2
American Commercial	149 1/2	125 1/2
Alcohol	35 1/2	29 1/2
American Ice, Pfd	37 1/2	19
American Sugar	76	63
Refining	70 1/2	56 1/2
American Tobacco	104 1/2	92 1/2
American Tobacco "B" 107	94 1/2	94 1/2
Austin Nichols Pfd. A 63	42 1/2	42 1/2

Can't Beat Market

The other fly, of course, is this. No matter how much you make in the market, you do not have a profit until you wrap up your winnings and get out of the market. But, alas, if you once win you WILL NEVER GET OUT.

Now let us see what has happened to the market. For one thing it started up a year ago—April, 1935—and has been rising more or less persistently ever since. That is extraordinary.

"If we are to build a better America we must first build into the hearts and minds and souls of our American youth the finest and most unselfish principles and ideals. This, scouting endeavors to do."

"Our youth is our greatest national and community asset. Let us adequately conserve and enhance these assets. Let us determine that the American leaders of tomorrow will be the finest, most capable and most honest citizens in our history."

"If you have the best interests of the body at heart you will be present at several of the sessions of the scout leadership school. We are counting on you. Don't fail us."

GURDON TRIO HELD

Meanwhile, Negro Confesses to Holdup of Bottling Works

Police Chief John W. Ridgill announced Saturday that he was holding two white youths and a girl who were picked up here with two coops of chickens, believed by police to be stolen property.

Officers said that the two boys and the girl gave their home as Gurdon.
They had 35 chickens.

As they drove into Hope one of the coops was recognized by Bob Wiley of Emmet, who said that the coop was stolen at his home about three weeks ago when chicken thieves raided the Emmet community.

Mr. Wiley notified officers, which led to the detention of the trio. Police quoted one of the youths as saying that the coop was purchased from a filling station operator near Gurdon.
They denied that the chickens were stolen property.

Officers at noon were communicating with Gurdon authorities to determine whether any chicken raids had been made there recently. No charges had been filed at noon Saturday.

Reward for Thieves
Their detention was followed by a statement by Sheriff Bearden who offered a $10 reward to any person who shoots a chicken thief caught in the act.

The sheriff said he was co-operating with Arkansas State Rangers who have launched a campaign against this criminal enterprise, which is fast becoming "big money."

Every person or firm buying chickens is required to know the party from whom they buy chickens. If the buyer purchases chickens that later proves to be stolen property the buyer will be arrested and prosecuted," the sheriff declared.

"The citizenship of Hempstead county have the same right to protect their property as they do their families, and wounded chicken thieves will be worth $10 in cash," he said.

Two Confessions
Police Chief Ridgill also announced that two confessions had been made in recent robberies here.

He said that Hodwick Lewis, 19-year-old negro, had confessed the robbery of the Luther Holloman bottling works, entered last week and robbed of $11 in currency and three pocket knives. At the time of the robbery approximately $100 in greenbacks was overlooked.

The Holloman place was entered through a rear window. The loot was taken from a desk drawer which was pried open.

Chief Ridgill said that Lewis had removed his socks, placing them on his hands to cover up possible fingerprints.

Ray Bradford, another negro youth, has confessed that he stole a suitcase from the automobile of George Van Natta of Dallas. The car was parked near Saenger theater.

The suitcase containing about $30
worth of clothes was recovered.

Spanish Premier Bars Communism

Azana Is Faithfully Carrying Out His Land-Division Program

By ALEXANDER H. UHL
Associated Press Correspondent
MADRID.—(AP)—Manuel Azana, Spain's stocky, thick-set premier, is being called Spain's chief bulwark against revolutionary socialism and communism.

Head of a leftist government that depends in great part on those very forces for support, his job daily increases in complexity as members of his coalition clash in bloody strife with fascists of the extreme right.

With the old monarchist parties in a state of political impotency, the communists and revolutionary socialists have become the new rivals to the republican system.

Likened To Kerensky

Premier Azana sometimes has been called the Kerensky of the Spanish Revolution, for many predict that after him will come communism as it did in Russia. His closest friends don't like the comparison and point out wide differences in the character of the two men.

The new premier is not content with mere oratory. A month after the new government had been formed he had yet to make his first speech. Instead he had been plodding along cementing the structure of the new government, giving the extremists a certain amount of rope to let off the steam of their passions.

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia: the Health Magazine

Before the baby comes, the mother should assemble the materials that will be required at child birth. If she is going to a hospital, she will need at least two nightgowns, a bathrobe, two pairs of stockings, a pair of slippers, a few handkerchiefs, a tooth brush, some toothpaste, or toothpowder, a comb, and a brush.

In most hospitals, the baby's clothes are provided until the baby is ready to leave. The day before the mother expects to leave the hospital with her baby, someone should bring her a shirt, a band, a petticoat or bathrobe, a pair of stockings, some safety pins, a few diapers, a sweater, a cap, and two blankets, which may be necessary for the baby en route to his home.

The more experienced mothers will have available a good many other clothes for the baby, because babies grow fast and need many changes before they are a year old.

Following is a list of infant needs: In warm weather, most doctors recommend cotton, or cotton and silk; in cold weather, wool, or silk and wool. Fall and winter:

Three binders (if not at hospital), 3 silk and wool shirts with sleeves, 2 pairs silk and wool stockings, 3 long nightgowns, 2-4 dozen diapers.

If mother wishes to dress baby:

Three muslin slips, 3 muslin dresses.

For outdoor wear:

Two caps, 2 sweaters, 1 bunting. Spring and Summer:

Three binders (if not at hospital), 3 cotton shirts with sleeves, 3 shirts without sleeves, 3 pairs cotton stockings, 3 long knit gowns, lightweight, 2-3 dozen diapers.

If mother wishes to dress baby:

Three muslin slips, 3 muslin dresses.

For outdoor wear:

Bonnet, sweater, light hunting or coat.

For the crib:

One good hair or felt mattress, 3 mattress protectors, 1 rubberized sheet, 2-6 quilted squares, 2 woolen crib blankets, 6 cotton sheets, 1-2 washable spreads, 3 cotton flannel wrapping squares.

Toilet necessities:

One bathtub, 1 dressing table, 1 hairbrush and comb, 1 tray and bottle set for toilet articles, 4 knit wash cloths, 4 knit face towels, 3 large bath towels.

Other needed accessories:

One beam scale (may be rented); 1 diaper pan (to soak soiled diapers); 1 room thermometer—to keep temperature right—68 degrees by day, 65 degrees at night, 72-75 degrees in the bathroom; 1 clothes horse; small-necked nursing bottles for water to formula; antiseptic nipples and bottle caps.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

Orderliness may become such an obsession with a woman that it will ruin not only her husband's and children's lives, but her own. When she runs to plump up every cushion on which a small boy or girl has set, to pick up the scattered pages of the newspaper her husband is reading, to replace the flowers that someone has moved two inches to the right on the writing desk—well, it is time that she took an inventory of the comforts of her home.

Homes are made to be lived in. Bodies and souls find their relaxation in the privacy of four sheltering walls which shut them in from the huris and fears and indifference of a troublesome world. If a man can't do as he pleases with his pipe and books, in his own living room, vaguely he will wonder why he is deprived of peace. If a child can't build a tower of blocks in his play room, he will wonder why he has a play room.

Pleasure As Furnishing Guide

If there is no point off the toys, no dissected engine, no one-eyed doll in the nursery, you may know that the children are not enjoying that room. They aren't free to do as they please. A room of sturdy, bright comfort where anybody may play with anything and everything all the time, gives far more pleasure than a beautiful, delicate room where only one or two expensive toys may be touched at once. The sturdy room may cost only a fraction of the luxurious one, but it brings satisfaction, ten times over and above that of the expensive one.

After all, it is the spirit that permeates a home that is all important. The freedom to laugh, read, play, eat—yes, even be a little sorry—as you please!

No one likes a littered house. But houses that are lived in and enjoyed need not be cluttered. Always the toys and papers can be put away when the games or reading are done. Fundamentally the order of the house is not broken. After all, why should we have possessions if we can not enjoy them? It isn't human nature for a little boy not to break an engine, now and then, to see what makes it go when it is wound up. It isn't natural for a small girl not to make at least one attempt to see if her rag doll is stuffed with sawdust or cotton.

Like Empty Shelves

Homes that are too decorative become the idols of their mistresses' hearts. They may turn into empty shelves at which no one warms. Children, growing older, will turn to somebody else's home where freedom and comfort sit by the hearth.

The same rules applies to clothing. If a child is dressed too well to enjoy himself, he can't have a good time. He would much prefer a simple pair of trousers and a rough and tumble play shirt. Looking like Little Lord Fauntleroy, so his mother can point him out to her guests, brings no satisfaction to him. Clothes books, homes, hearts are made to be used! Comfort should come first in the list of attributes that are found under a protective roof where people live together.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

There is something breezy and refreshing about Rex Stout's new mystery story, "The Rubber Band" (Farrar and Rinehart: $2).

This is another yarn about Nefo Wolfe, the fat man who solves homicidal puzzles by sitting placidly in his office, drinking beer and orating in a vaguely "Alexander Woolcott vein."

Here we find him digging into the case of a lovely stenographer who is being framed by a cruel boss. As he digs, he runs across a $1,000,000 debt owed by a distinguished engineer diplomat, and that, in turn, brings him up to a neat and baffling murder.

He finds himself, presently, unframing the stenog, putting the hooks into the Englishman, and solving the murder; and the account of his activities makes about as nice a bit of reading as the detective story fan could want.

Not so much can be said for Mignon G. Eberhart's "Fair Warning" (Doubleday, Doran: $2). This one is pretentious and somewhat up-stage, and, in some of its more crucial moments, fails to make a great deal of sense. It deals with a young wife who, her husband being exceedingly mean to her, falls deeply in love with the man next door.

No sooner does she fall than some-

Hollywood

By Paul Harrison

HOLLYWOOD.—Mr. John Hewlett was giving a cocktail party. It was a party for the introduction of his movie proteges prior to the beginning of a personal appearance tour.

Clifton Webb and Alice Faye were among the guests sitting and sipping about the patio. Evelyn Venable, too, and Minna Gombell, Hoot Gibson, Carl Brisson, Frances Marion, and Hedda Hopper. Also numerous lesser celebrities, together with the usual assortment of writers, agents, correspondents, and bawdy photographers.

As at most cocktail parties, nobody was paying much attention to the guests of honor, which included a lion named Tarzan, a tiger named Satan, El Gato the puma, Koogoo the bear, and several dogs. Most of these were brought separately on the lawn, there being considerable professional jealousy among animal stars of Hollywood.

Tarzan, who once committed the grave social error of munching on Charles Bickford, was on his very best behavior this day. He lolled in elegant somnolence while visitors patronizingly patted him or twatted his whiskers. Brisson offered him a beak-

FOLLY and FAREWELL

By Marie Blizard
© 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

LINDA BOULNE, 20 years old, pretty and socially prominent in the little middlewestern town of Newtown, needs PETER FAREWELL, political reporter, when she goes to the blonde office with an announcement about a charity bazaar.

The same day Linda's father, in financial difficulties, kills himself. Peter goes to the blonde home to break the news to Linda. Misunderstanding, she treats him rudely. Later she apologizes, concludes that her father's money is gone and she must find a job. She tells Peter about a scenario she has written and he asks to read it.

Linda promises to come to his home Sunday to meet his mother. In the meantime, PETER FAREWELL, with whom Linda is in love, telephone and Linda forgets her date with Peter.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV

A DATE was a date, and it had to be kept in Linda's code, but when Pete Gardiner's call reminded her of their date for Sunday afternoon she thought of Dix and did something she had never done in her life before. She lied to him.

"I'm terribly sorry," Linda said, "but I'm afraid I can't keep our date. Something unexpected, something about the estate has come up—and I've got to see someone at 4 o'clock."

There was the briefest of silences. Linda couldn't know that it was bitter disappointment. Then Pete tried again:

"If it's not going to keep you late, couldn't I pick you up for supper?"

It was Linda's turn to hesitate. Dix hadn't said anything about supper. He had said he would come by around 4. Hoping that he would stay, she had already prepared a little supper for them.

"I'm afraid it will be too late. And... I'm... I'm really sorry," she said almost truthfully.

"Okay. We'll try another time," Pete said with a lightness he didn't feel. And when he had rung off, his lips tightened as they had when he was a little boy. Perhaps Miss Bourne didn't care for the idea of going across the tracks to the Gardiner home for supper.

Linda didn't think of that or of Pete's mother until much later that day. Dix was coming!

It was nearly 5 when Dix came. His rooster roared into the drive and, through the curtains, Linda saw him glance at his wrist-watch before he raised the knocker.

"Hello," she said in just the tone she had always said hello to him before, but embarrassment had fallen on him. She could forget while she was with him, the heavy hand of circumstance that had descended since last they had met. Dix couldn't. It was not strong enough, this bond between them. Linda had become someone else. She was dramatized in his mind, and by as she would, she could not change things.

He told her gravely of his activities, and when she tried to speak of her father and all that Dix already knew because she wanted to clear away the something between them so that they could find each other as they had been! Dix would not allow her. He wouldn't have tea, he said, glancing once more at his watch. He had to "pick up some people."

Dix wouldn't have tea, he said, glancing at his watch. He had to "pick up some people."

In her imagination, Linda saw Jane Wyatt's laughing face held up to his, and she propped her chin up mentally.

"Tell me about the Glee Club concert," she said.

He did. Precisely the way he would have told his mother. Carefully he reviewed the program. After that, Linda gave up. When he rose she got his hat and, summoning a smile she did not feel, she said, "I'm not very gay now, Dix, or very good company, but I hope you'll come again."

"You bet," he answered heartily, and she tried not to see his relief. "We'll have to do something one of these nights. Something quiet."

Very calmly Linda took the tea-tray to the kitchen. Very calmly she wrapped the untouched sandwiches in a damp cloth, put the dishes back in the bottle, rinsed the ash trays. Then she took all the flowers out and dumped them in the rubbish basket. She went upstairs and squeezed her eyes tightly shut so that the tears would not come through.

BUT it did come, and when she had cried until her nose was red, her lip swollen and her eyes burned back in her head and she was as disgusted with herself as she was hurt, she took off the velvet gown and got out her old er of beer, but he was an African lion with a taste for gin.

The photographers parked their highballs and snatched their cameras when Miss Venable decided to ride Tarzan, which she accomplished without benefit of jodhpurs.

Just a Purring Cat

Satan sparred a couple of rounds with Harvey Stewart, his trainer, but his heart wasn't in it. What Satan wanted to do was to meet the visitors, and his ingratiating manners became quite a nuisance. You can scarcely hold your balance, let alone a brimming Martini, when a bumble-footed tiger comes rubbing against your knees.

Satan proved a little recalcitrant when Stewart tried to lead him back to his cage. Obviously, the fun-loving beast wanted to remain and be the life of the party. But if Satan had slipped his collar and hurled the garden wall there would have been the devil to pay in Beverly Hills.

Unappreciative Neighbors

The neighbors, far and near, already had been complaining. Only Charlie Butterworth, next door, had remained silent—and he kept his shutters closed. The police were not to be convinced that Satan, Tarzan, El Gato and King, another lion; were tabbies with social attainments and a passion for civility.

It was just as well that the coppers had not witnessed an event of the previous evening, when a car smashed the trailer in which Tarzan was riding. The lion was hurled free, with nothing damaged but his dignity. Stewart commandeered a laundry truck, got Tarzan inside, and continued the journey to the farm where the animals were boarding.

Start of a Tour

Mr. Hewlett—the same young Mr. Hewlett who managed the tour of Colleen Moore's astonishing doll house—says he has enlisted 60 animal actors of Hollywood for this venture. Some were just atmosphere players, and don't know many tricks. Malibu, the deer from "Sequoia," is still as shy as Louise Rainer.

There are several trained horses from western films, and a number of dogs most fans will recognize. Silver Wolf, once he used to double in some of the more difficult stunts, suppose do have been done by Rin Tin Tin. Then he played in pictures as Rin Tin Tin, Jr.

Two pumas and a mountain lion, each 6 months old, are to be billed as "Wampus Baby Stars"—a nice Hollywood touch. King will appear as the only platinum blond lion in the world, if they can bleach him and keep him bleached. Putting a mixture of peroxide, milk of magnesia, and white henna all over a lion, even a tame lion, is quite a job.

to herself before she spoke. Mrs. Gardiner was entirely too much like something out of a book. Look as she would, Linda couldn't find a flaw. Little, sweet-faced, her soft skin a network of the wrinkles of the aged (for all that she was not truly old), Mrs. Gardiner was Linda's idea of A Mother.

IN that quick second, Linda wondered what her own mother was like. The pretty, frivolous girl who had run away from her little daughter.

"I'm Linda Bourne, Mrs. Gardiner," she said.

"Well, now this is a pleasant surprise!" Mrs. Gardiner had drawn her into the small hall. It did smell of spice and... and tobacco, Linda thought approvingly.

"We were afraid you weren't going to be able to come, after all. I told Peter to call you and see if that gentleman might have left by now, but he said maybe you'd come anyway. And I see you have."

Linda was slightly swept off her feet. She had planned to confess that she was suddenly ashamed and had come to apologize, but now Mrs. Gardiner had given her a graceful way out so that none of them need be hurt and she seized it.

"Mr. Gardiner said he would call for me, but I wasn't sure what time I would be free. I took a chance, breaking in on you this way, because I wanted to meet you. Peter... Mr. Gardiner told me such lovely things about you."

"You mustn't mind him, Miss Bourne. He says lovely things about everybody, and very lovely things about you."

Suddenly Linda felt her back go a little straighter. She didn't want Pete Gardiner to say lovely things about her. She didn't want him to think of her. She resented any implication that the most casual relationship between them, as a woman does when she is in love with another man.

"I sent him to a little shop down the street for cream. We're going to have strawberry shortcake. He'll be back in just a minute. Make yourself comfortable, I've got to see about my biscuit."

"Hello," Linda said to Pete before he had time to recover from his surprise. "My caller left earlier than I expected and I came to surprise you."

"That's... why that's fine!" Pete had to readjust his thoughts about Linda. Disappointment had given way to hot anger after he had talked to her on the telephone, but now all that had disappeared. He liked her for comeliness. He liked her for the old tweeds she wore and the easy way she had greeted him. He liked her.

"Want to hear the news?" She nodded.

"The Blade needs a gal to write society news. I was talking to Barrett about you. If you'd like a job like that, drop in and see him tomorrow morning."

Baptist Training Rally for "Spa"

Five-Year Program to Be Outlined to Arkansas May 1-2

The Baptist Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, in Nashville, Tenn., in co-operation with the Baptist Training Union Department of the Arkansas Baptist State Convention, will officially launch a five-year Baptist training program in a state rally to be held in the Central Baptist church, Hot Springs, May 1-2.

Association directors and leaders from the 40 associations in Arkansas, along with associational missionaries, moderators, and pastors, will be in attendance. The launching of this program is an effort on the part of Southern Baptists to discuss with associational leaders the possibilities of utilizing the District Association in promoting the work of the denomination. At the same time, it is an effort to take successful methods of promoting that have been used successfully in building great churches to every church in the state.

The meeting begins Friday morning, and the following will speak at the morning session: Rev. T. H. Jordan, Hot Springs; J. P. Edmunds, State Director; W. A. Harrell, Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. B. L. Bridges, Executive Secretary of the Arkansas Baptist Convention; Dr. T. L. Holcomb, Executive Secretary of the Baptist Sunday School Board. Mr. B. B. McKinney, of Nashville, will be the song leader.

On the Friday afternoon program, Rev. W. J. Hinsley, Hot Springs, and Mr. W. A. Harrell will speak. General and departmental conferences will be led by the following: J. E. Lambdin, Nashville, Tenn.; W. A. Harrell, Nashville, Tenn.; Aubrey Hearn, Henry C. Rogers, and Mrs. J. E. Lambdin, all of Nashville, Tenn.; and J. P. Edmunds, Little Rock.

At the Friday evening program, in addition to general and departmental conferences, Rev. C. V. Hickerson, of Hot Springs, and Dr. T. L. Holcomb, of Nashville, Tenn., will speak.

The Saturday morning program will be given over to a musical program under the direction of M. B. B. McKinney, addresses by Rev. J. H. Washington, Hot Springs, and Mr. W. A. Harrell, of Nashville, Tenn., and a conference on State, District, and Associational Objectives and Goals led by J. P. Edmunds, Little Rock.

The meeting adjourns Saturday noon. Several hundred from the 40 associations in the state are expected to be in attendance.

Tent Revival Held Nightly at Emmet

Evangelists Cross and Calhoun in Charge of Services There

A community revival meeting is in progress at Emmet and is being conducted by Evangelists W. T. Cross of Magnolia, Miss., and C. A. Calhoun of Haynesville, La.

Services are being held each night in large tent located next to Emmet High School. Special singings are rendered at all services. The Rev. Mr. Cross is a chalk artist and is rendering special chalk-talks each evening.

The meeting is non-denominational and has as its objective the deepening of the spiritual life of all.

Booster services begin at 7:30 each night and lead into the preaching services. The public is invited to attend. The meeting will probably continue another two weeks.

Negro Ball Game Here at 3 Sunday

Hope Team Will Meet Negro Aggregation From Haynesville, La.

The Hope negro baseball team will meet a negro team from Haynesville, La., at 3 p. m. Sunday at Yerger Athletic park.

It will be the second game of the season for the Hope team, which last Sunday defeated Nash, Texas.

Ohio Utilities Cut Rates

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—Ohio utilities either voluntarily or by agreement with the state utilities commission without formal hearings, reduced electric and gas rates sufficiently in the first quarter of 1936, utility commission chairman E. J. Hoppel says to save Ohio consumers $1,899,340 annually.

It is said that, if the prevailing winds of the eastern United States were to reverse themselves, the climate would become semi-tropical and rainfall would be very heavy.

So many things we wish for every day;
So ill content with blessings by the way;
But much is ours that's really worth the while,
A song, a prayer, a greeting and a smile;
A rift of sunshine in a stormy sky,
Health giving winds of heaven passing by;
Sweet scent of roses, breath of forest wild,
Faith, Hope and Love, the laughter of a child;
And richer gift no grace of heaven can send
Than the hearty hand-clasp of a friend.—Selected.

In this period of centennial celebrations, the writer calls to mind, that if life continued on earth, one of Hope's most enterprising and influential citizens of the past, would have celebrated his one hundredth birthday anniversary on the 21st of April 1936. It was my good fortune to be closely associated with this splendid citizen, as his secretary, for a period of 12 years or more. He was very quiet and unassuming, having the strength of character that lies too deep for words, never letting his right hand know what his left was doing, but could always be found in the lead for any task that was uplifting for his town, his community, or fellowman. A Christian gentleman, kind and courteous, and in the words of the poet:
Great in council, great in work,
Foremost captain of his time,
Rich in serving common-sense,
And in his simplicity sublime.
I refer to the late, Captain J. T. West, founder of the Hope Lumber company and a number of other Hope institutions that have helped make the town.

I am deeply impressed with the "come back" of South Walnut street. It is interesting to one who remembers when this street was the town's most popular residence street, having the handsomest homes, the most popular boarding house, the prettiest yard, with the fanciest picket fences, in rare designs, not far removed from the first public school building, where Capt. C. A. Bridwell, and the well remembered "Miss Mollie" and Mrs. W. R. Bell, (Bless their memories) taught the first principles, and instilled ambition, love and respect into a goodly number of what was then Hope's future citizens. But time has taken its toll along Walnut street, and we have lived to see those old homes fall into decay, some of the torn down, and "big business" is fast creeping down where once stood the beginning of homes in this splendid town. Where these homes once stood, you will find a handsome filling station, a complete lumber and building material store, the new Knit cheese factory, and last, but not least, we have a "Medison Square" newly erected, just about where the writer once jumped the rope and rolled a hoop in her own back yard—thus for progression.

It was indeed surprising that so few of Hope's music lovers went to Little Rock to hear the Philadelphia Symphony, playing in that city on Thursday night. The Arkansas Gazette says: "To have waited a hundred years for the coming of Stokowski's orchestra, proved well worth the waiting." It is seldom an orchestra of this size and reputation is heard outside the great music centers.

One of the most impressive features of the graduating exercises held on Thursday evening at the Hope High School auditorium, other than the splendid address by Dr. Stuart Oglesby, and the unusually well delivered expressions from the different graduates, was the beautiful flower arrangement on the stage. Quantities of lovely sweet peas, pink roses and California's prize, Bougainvillea arranged in tall French floor baskets, with a large blue bowl of exquisite sweet peas, pink roses, carnations and maiden hair fern on the speakers table, all making a lovely background for this beautiful and impressive launching of some fifty nine young lives.

So many, many beautiful flowers blooming at this time, and the refreshing much needed rain of this past week fell just right, and we are grateful for it, and the bright days following. It will pay you to get up early these mornings and rejoice with the birds. Try it and feel "out-doorsey" like O. O. McIntyre.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Franklin and son Bobby will spend Sunday with friends in Texarkana.

Mrs. R. V. Herndon was hostess on Friday afternoon to the members of the Friday Bridge club and two extra tables of players, at her home on South Main street. Beautiful spring flowers adorned the rooms, and attractive favors were awarded to Mrs. Page for the guests, Mrs. W. Q. Warren and Mrs. Al. Hicks. Following the game, the hostess served a most tempting plate lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Herndon, Sr., will leave Sunday for Memphis, Tenn., where they will attend a meeting of the Tri-State Funeral Directors.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wilson announce the marriage of their daughter, Virginia, to Paul Miller of Tulsa, Okla. The marriage was solemnized on Thursday evening, April 18, at the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. W. H. Smith. The young couple will make their home in Tulsa, where Mr. Miller is connected with the Bond Baking company. Mrs. Miller will be remembered as Miss Virgie Wilson, formerly of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Garner have as house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Brown of Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. J. E. Brewer of Abilene, Texas, arrived Thursday afternoon for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Gus Haynes and other relatives and friends. Mrs. Brewer will be remembered by old friends as Miss Alma Hanna formerly of this city.

Mrs. J. L. Lewis has as house guest, Mrs. Harold Sudler of Texarkana.

The Lure of the Stock Boom

TOP—Harbingers of the boom that has lured thousands into the stock market are the crowds that throng the once empty board rooms of Wall Street brokers. In this unusual candid camera study, Margaret Bourke-White has kaleidoscopically recorded the emotional reactions of a typical board room crowd, their attention riveted to the quotations board. Apprehensive wonder, excited interest, listlessness, disappointment, cheerfulness flash across the expressive face.

BOTTOM—The high stocks are out of reach of the little fellow, whether you're buying them or just running the board in a broker's office. This Margaret Bourke-White picture shows you one of the "big men of Wall Street" recording a change in stock price for the benefit of the crowd in the board room.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

HOPE GOSPEL TABERNACLE
Bert Webb, Pastor.

Evangelist and Mrs. H. A. Chaney are conducting a revival campaign at the Gospel Tabernacle, and will be speaking twice on Sunday and nightly, through next week with the exception of Saturday. Mrs. Chaney will give her life story on Monday night. Rev. Chaney will speak at the 11 o'clock hour and again at 8:00 in the evangelistic service.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
Wallace R. Rogers, Pastor

The pastor of First Baptist church will begin a series of sermons at the morning hour on Sunday which he is calling, "The Mountains of the Bible." The subjects will be as follows:
The Mount of Physical Safety.
The Mount of Sacrifice.
The Mount of Law.
The Mount of Vindication.
The Mount of Transfiguration.
The Mount of the Cross.
The Mount of Hope.

These subjects will continue through the morning services of May and into the first two Sundays of June.
The Sunday school is working toward a total of 400 for this week, and will, along with all other organizations of the church, begin "enlistment month" for May. This is a definite effort to enlist the people who are already members of the First Baptist church or Sunday school, and is to lead into a special evangelistic effort for June.

Every department of the Sunday school is now meeting in the new education building, and within another week all the class rooms in this building will be available.

The pastor will preach at the evening service on, "If the Voice of Heaven and Earth Fall, What?"

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
Fred R. Harrison, Pastor

Are you hungry for certainty in your religious experiences? Do you want a positive faith? The sermon subject for Sunday morning at 10:55 o'clock will be "The Quest for Certainty."

"Hearing God's Call" will be the subject for the evening service at 7:30 o'clock.

The Church School will meet at 9:45 a. m. and the young people will meet in their Epworth League service at 6:30 p. m.

GARRET MEMORIAL BAPTIST

Revival Enters on Its Second Week

Chaney's Continue Their Services at the Local Tabernacle

The revival campaign, being held at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle, North Main, goes into the second week Sunday. The Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Chaney of Oklahoma City are in charge and are speaking night to interested attentive crowds.

Friday night Evangelist Chaney spoke on, "The Great Salvation," and Sunday he will be speaking at both the 11 o'clock morning worship hour and again at the night evangelistic service at 8. On Monday night Mrs. Chaney will give her personal testimony or her life-story telling of her miraculous conversion and subsequent call to the ministry. Thousands have heard her in other places give this interesting talk.

A morning meeting is held each day except Saturday at 10 o'clock with the Rev. Mr. Chaney in charge and a children's meeting each day except Monday and Saturday at 2 o'clock. Children's church meets at 7 each Sunday and a Christ's Ambassadors meeting also at 7. Mrs. Chaney is an experienced worker with children and young people.

These meetings are of a non-sectarian character and the public is extended an invitation to attend.

Christian Program Broadcast in China

Only 9 Years Since Government Had Forbidden the Teaching

HANKOW, China—(AP)—Christianity has gone on the air over a government radio station here.

And missionaries recall that it was only nine years ago that the government had been proclaiming "the end of Christian teaching" in this country. Dr. Ralph Mortenson of Minneapolis, Minn., is largely responsible for making it possible for the church to carry its message to China's radio audience for the first time. He made arrangements for biweekly broadcasts over the new and powerful Hankow station. The programs are under the auspices of the Hupoh Christian Council, composed of representatives of all the Protestant missions in central China.

Dr. Mortenson delivered the inaugural sermon and he was followed, in later broadcasts, by the Rt. Rev. A. A. Gilman and Bishop Logan H. Roots, both Americans. Deaconess Stewart, whose home is in Rutledge, Vermont, is assisting Dr. Mortenson.

Spanish Premier

the election victory jubilation, but stepping in when the situation developed violence.

Land Division Under Way
That he can be hard when he feels the necessity is generally conceded. In fact one of the rightist charges against him in the election campaign was that his 1933 government had shown unnecessary brutality in putting down an anarchist uprising.

One of the main jobs that Premier Azana has been pushing is division of Spain's large estates among the peasant farmers. The law for the division of these estates was adopted several years ago but was allowed to slumber through the rightist regimes of 1934 and 1935. This law has again been put into full operation and thousands of farm workers are being assigned small tracts weekly.

In some of the provinces impatient workers have taken lands or staked out claims on their own hook. This was particularly true in the province of Badajoz where agricultural laborers flocked out of their villages and took possession of estates under divisions worked out by their own organizations.

Own Petard Hoists Owners
The government, insisting that the lands must be divided according to law, is faced by the old tradition that says, "Get the peasants on the land and nothing will get them off."

One of the main complaints of dispossessed proprietors has been that compensation granted them has been far below the actual value of the land. The valuation is worked out on the basis of the taxes paid and the government answer has been that if property is valued at 100 per cent, the market was rising 48 per cent. Why?

While the rate of business activity was rising 18.6 per cent, the stock market was soaring 48 per cent. Why?

Let us compare the market with employment. While factory employment was rising 5 per cent, the market was rising 48 per cent. Why?

While all manufacturing production was going up about 7 per cent, the market was rising 48 per cent. Why?

It is, of course, difficult to make a comparison with earnings. Earnings have risen. But yields are not yet at the point which justifies the prices to which the market has risen.

To sum it up therefore, while employment was rising 5 per cent, production 7 per cent, business activity 18.6 per cent, the market was soaring 48 per cent.

Forces, Behind Rise
There can be no doubt that certain corporations have enjoyed a large increase in profits. And that this would be a basis for the present market upswing. However, the rise in prices has extended to corporations which still enjoy no profits. Railroad shares, for instance, have risen but the railroads still show a deficit.

Of course, stock prices are based, not on real values, but on expectations—and immediate expectations at that. What can we hope to see the shares sell at in a day, a week, a month or two or six? That is the question. If there is some force in the market pushing it up so that shares can be bought at one price with the expectation of selling them at a higher price a little later, then the real value of the shares does not count.

The important thing, therefore, is—what is the force which is sending this market up? Is it recovery in business? Is it the fear of inflation? Is it manipulation?

saying that assistants were in charge of his books and that he notified State Comptroller Griffin Smith as soon as he discovered he shortages the middle of 1935.

The state based its case on an audit of Chief County Accountant J. Bryan Sims, who said Smith's accounts showed shortages of $8,700 in personal property taxes collected in 1934 and 1935.

The accountant also charged approximately $2,000 collected in 1936 by the Lee county sheriff and collector was credited to collections the preceding year and that $1,900 was collected this year for which there was no credit.

"Negligence, carelessness or dishonesty" on the part of Smith's deputies was charged by defense attorneys as the cause of the shortages. Accountant F. P. Palmer and Frank Jones testified they audited Smith's books for the period from April 3 to 13 this month and that they balanced.

Smith still faces a civil suit seeking judgment for $26,873 on the basis of a state comptroller's audit of his accounts two years ago. Hearing of the action is set for May 11.

Circuit Judge W. D. Davenport in calling the embezzlement trial Wednesday named D. L. Griffin, retired merchant, as acting sheriff pending outcome of the charges against Smith.

THE BLACK GROUPEE HAS AT LEAST FOUR DISTINCT DRESSES... WHITE, BLUE, GREEN, AND BLACK.

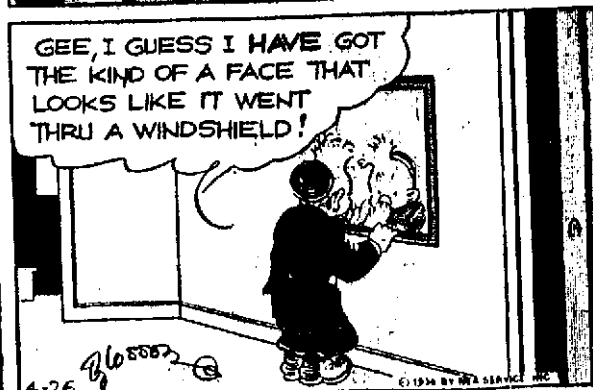

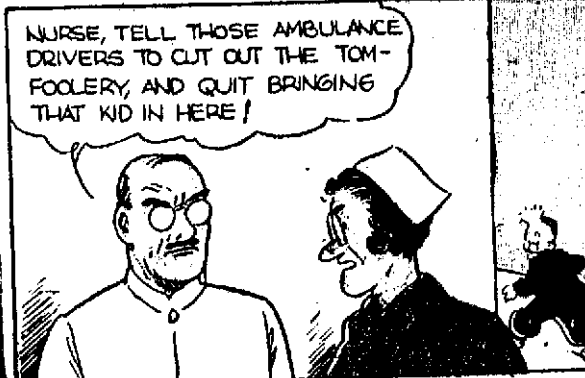

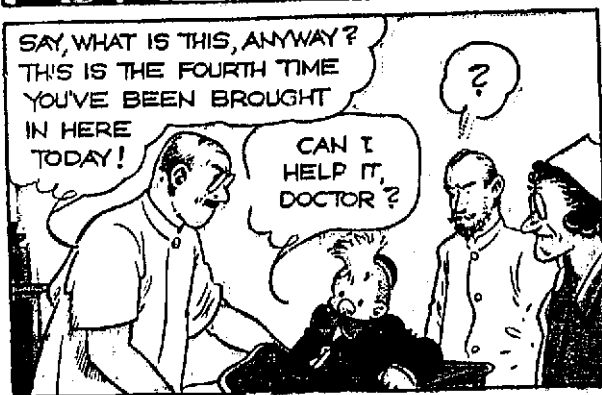

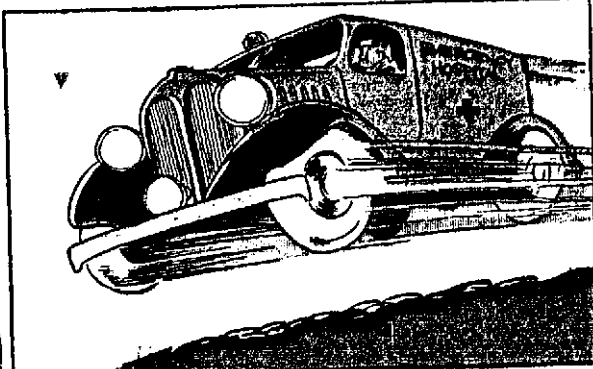

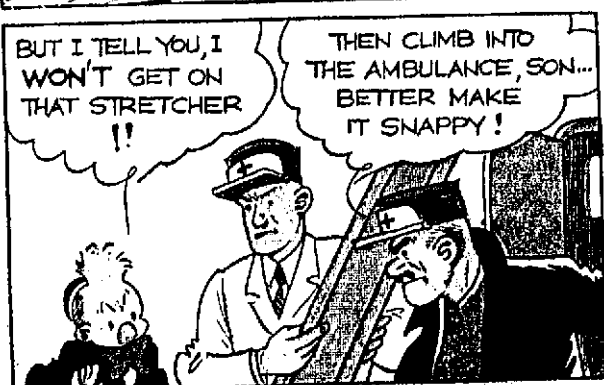

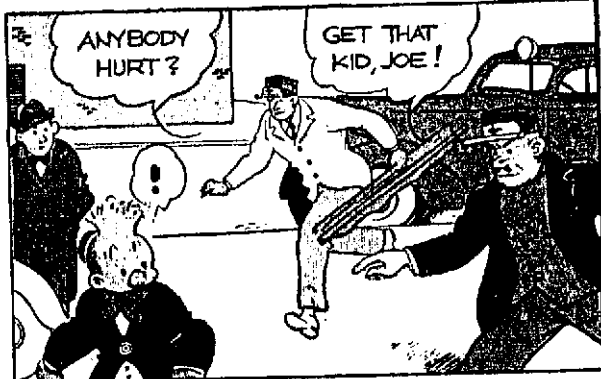

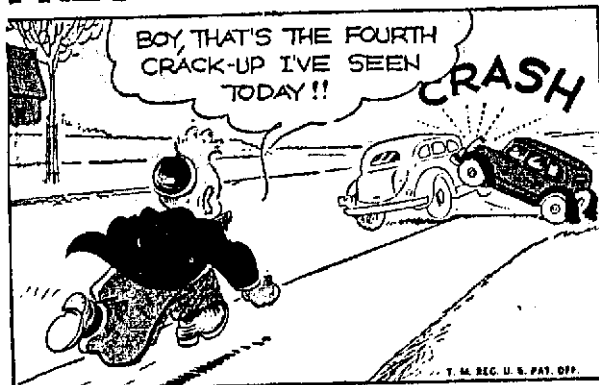

THE SPADE FISH, (ABOVE) IF FRIGHTENED, WILL ASSUME BLACK CROSS BANDS ON ITS OTHERWISE SILVERY BODY.

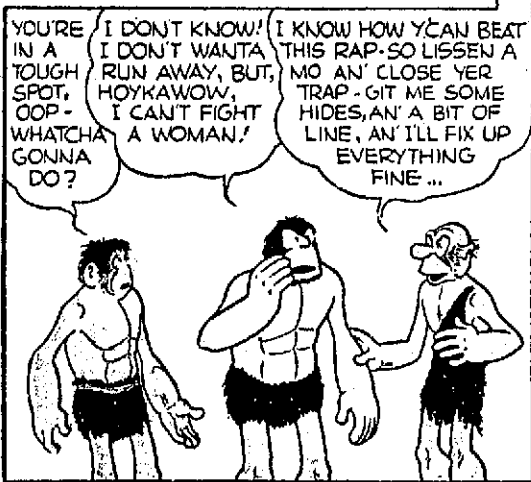

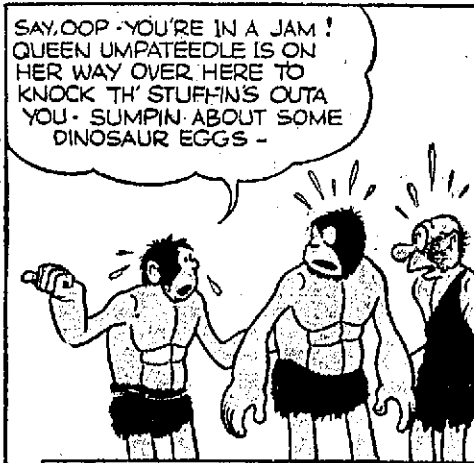

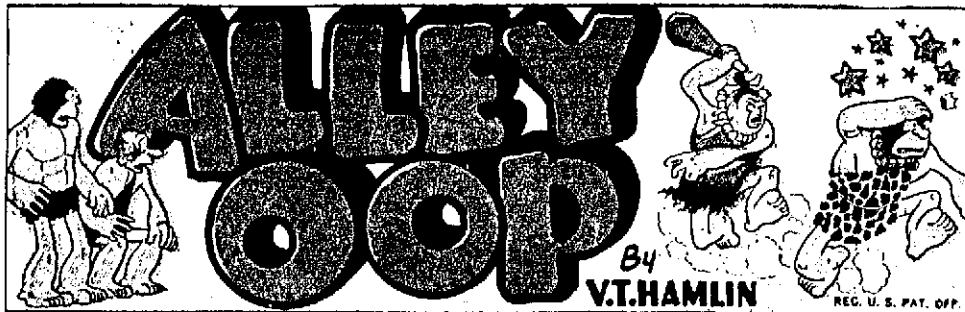

THE NASSAU GROUPEE HAS A MOST REMARKABLE WARDROBE. BY SIMPLE EXPANSION AND CONTRACTION OF COLOR CELLS, IT DONS SEVEN DIFFERENT COSTUMES.

EDAPHOSAURUS

THIS CREATURE IS KNOWN AS A LOWER PERMIAN PELICOSAUR - A SPECIES OF MAMMAL-LIKE REPTILES WHOSE ABUNDANT FOSSIL REMAINS HAVE BEEN RECOVERED FROM THE TEXAS RED BEDS. THIS WOULD INDICATE THAT THIS SIX-FOOT-LONG CREATURE BECAME EXTINCT SOME TWO HUNDRED AND TEN MILLION YEARS AGO. IT IS VERY SIMILAR IN APPEARANCE TO THE DIMETRODON -

NEXT WEEK
DINICTIS
(The ancestor of true cats.)

DID YOU KNOW THAT EVELYN IS THINKING SERIOUSLY OF BECOMING A BLOND?

NO — HONESTLY?

WELL — NOT RIGHT AWAY —

BUT EVENTUALLY — SO SHE DOESN'T WANT IT BROADCAST AROUND, YET.

SOUNDS AS THOUGH SHE WANTS TO KEEP IT DARK FOR AWHILE.

SALESMAN SAM

What, No Vest?

By Small

I'M BACK, SAM! YOU CAN GO EAT, NOW!

YEAH, AN' I OUGHTA TAKE ONE O' THESE GUNS WITH ME! AFTER I FINISH LUNCH, I GOT LOTS A TIME TA KILL!

WELL, LUNCH IS OVER! NOW WHAT'LL I DO? TAKE IN A MOVIE OR JUST TAKE IN THE AIR?

I'LL TAKE IN THE AIR! I'LL GO DOWN TO TH' CORNER AN' SEE WHAT TH' GANG'S GASSIN' ABOUT!

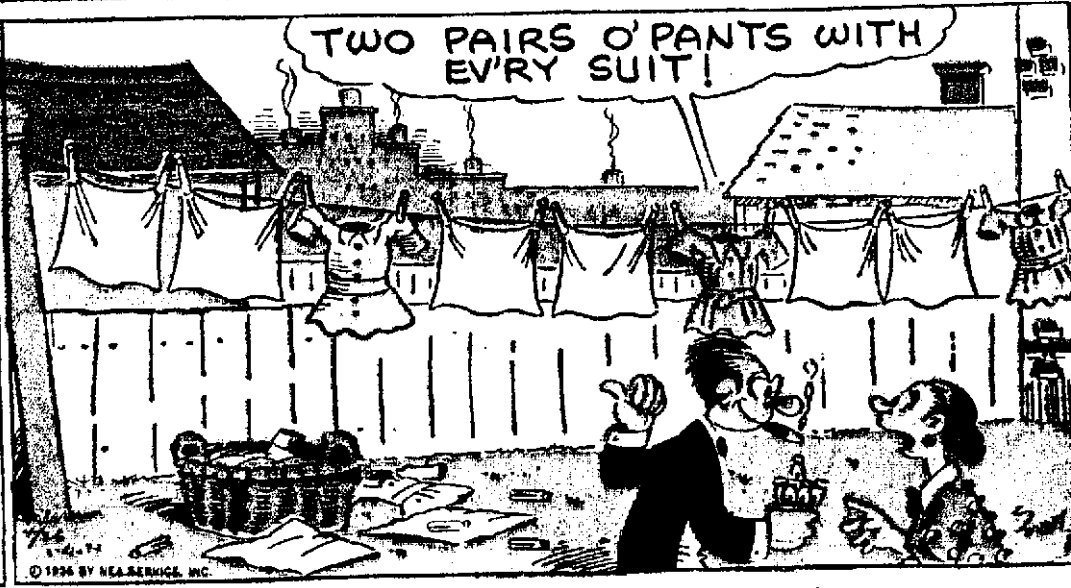

WHY, SURE I'LL HELP YA PUT YER BABY'S WASH ON TH' LINE! MIGHT JUST AS WELL HANG OUT HERE AS DOWN ON TH' CORNER!

THAT'S FINE! O'MON IN AN' GIT BUSY!

WELL, FER GOODNESS SAKES, SAM! WHAT'S THE IDEA OF HANGIN' OUT MY BABY'S CLOTHES IN THAT FASHION?

TWO PAIRS O' PANTS WITH EV'RY SUIT!
